Comparative study of the some expressions in Spanish and Persian Languages

Ali Feizollahi*
Assistant Professor of linguistics, Department of Spanish Language Faculty of Foreign Languages and Literature, University of Tehran, Tehran, Iran

Nasrin Gandomi
MA in General linguistics, Islamis Azad University, Central Tehran, Tehran, Iran

(Received: 17th, April, 2019, Accepted: 5th, August, 2019 Date of publication: July, 2019)

The two main characteristics of phraseological expressions, fixation and idiomaticity, not only can make the speaker who learns a language have difficulty in understanding the meaning, but also for native speakers, since the context in which they are used not always facilitate the translation. The expressions that are considered as a cultural and specific of a particular language and societies are not only an exception but they are a sum example of this kind of languages and cultures discrepancies. Meanwhile we sometimes observe that despite of cultural, geographical and linguistic discrepancies there are similitudes in some of the expressions and their usage. Therefore, this work focuses from a formal and semantic point of view in a comparative study of some daily used Spanish expressions and their equivalents in Farsi. The purpose of this comparison is to observe the differences and similarities in the way of making phraseological expressions in both languages.

Keywords: Expressions, Semantics, Phraseology, Persian Language, Spanish Language.

* E-mail: ???; (Responsible Author)
 E-mail: ???